When firefighters turn up to put out a fire, traditionally people expect them to be men. However, underneath the protective clothing, helmet and visor, there are more and more women. One such woman is Krystyna Krakowski. She became a firefighter in Florida in 2000, when there were very few women to work beside or guide her in the service. She is now not only successful but also recruiting more females into the profession. In September 2020, Ms. Krakowski was one of five women at Palm Beach Gardens Fire Rescue who made department history by working an entire shift with no male colleagues. "We are capable of anything. Don't let anything stop you," Ms. Krakowski said.

Women in the United States have a long history of fighting fires. During World War II, women fought fires while men fought overseas. At that time, some fire departments were staffed entirely by women. Nowadays, female firefighters account for 4% of professional firefighters nationwide. However, their numbers and influence in the ranks are on the rise. Being a firefighter is a challenging but rewarding job. Firefighters need to wear heavy equipment, use various tools and perform rescue operation. Therefore, they have to be quick thinkers, strong and courageous. They work 24-hour shifts and then get 48 hours off before they repeat the same routine. During their shifts, they respond to calls involving incidents like structure fires, car accidents, medical emergencies and traumatic injuries. They also provide fire safety education and other measures that can help communities prevent accidents or avoid injuries.

 - D. There was an all-female fire rescue crew for the first time.
33. According to the passage, which of the following statement is TRUE?
- A. Nowadays, there are more female firefighters than during World War II.
 - B. 4% of professional firefighters in Florida are women.
 - C. During World War II, women served as firefighters to replace male firefighters who joined the military.
 - D. Firefighters work on shifts that can last up to 48 hours.
34. All of the following are requirements to become a firefighter EXCEPT _____.
- A. Have a good physical condition
 - B. Be brave
 - C. Be able to make decisions fast
 - D. Be able to avoid injuries effectively
35. One of the objectives of the fire service is _____
- A. to encourage people to join the profession.
 - B. to stop fires from happening.
 - C. to show citizens how to perform operations.
 - D. to answer phone calls about traffic.

C. Read the following passage. For each of the questions from 36 to 40, write T if the statement is TRUE, F if the statement is FALSE and NI if there is NO INFORMATION on it.

The Eurovision Song Contest is an annual event where singers from different European countries compete to win the title of best song in Europe. It's one of the most watched events in the world, with roughly 200 million viewers. Each year it takes place in the country that won the previous year. In 2022, it was Italy's turn as host country. When it started in 1956, there were just seven participants. Today, over 40 countries took part in the competition, with non-European participants including Israel and Australia. Each participating country sends a singer or a group to perform one original song at the semi-final. From these performances, 20 are chosen for the Grand Final. The main reason why Eurovision is such a big deal is that its performances are incredible. There is a variety of performances: pop, rock, folk and even opera. The productions are amazing, full of special effects and hilarious lyrics. It's really fun to watch. After the performances at the Grand Final, each country votes for the best song. TV viewers can vote using their mobile phones, but each country also has an official jury who decides 50 per cent of the votes. In the end, the song with the most votes wins. Some famous singers owe their success to Eurovision. The Swedish group ABBA, for example, won the Eurovision in 1974 with its performance of Waterloo, and then became huge stars. In 1988, Céline Dion won for Switzerland before finding world fame with songs like My Heart Will Go On from the film Titanic. Overall, Eurovision is one of the most delightful music competitions in the world, and people should absolutely watch it.
